

Introducing: Faye Reineberg Holt

In addition to books, Faye has published numerous short stories, poems, interviews and articles. She has provided readings and facilitated workshops from BC to Saskatchewan.

At an earlier stage in her career, she was a high school English teacher, and currently, she teaches non-credit writing workshops at Mount Royal University, Calgary. As well, she has taught in the Women's Words program, U of A, Edmonton, and for numerous writing groups. She has worked with all ages, from Grade One to seniors.

Formerly, an educational officer for Glenbow Museum, she has researched at museums and archives from Ottawa to Victoria. She is a member of historical societies and provincial and national writing organizations such as The Writers'

Union of Canada, Canadian Authors' Association (Alberta Branch), Writers Guild of Alberta and Young Alberta Book Society.

Her Other Life

Faye is certain she has never been bored. Despite her passionate interest in words and history, she enjoys gardening, hiking and skiing. Also, she loves anything and everything to do with family, friends, old and new photos, nature and travel.
